3 Question 3

2001: A Space Odyssey

2001: A Space Odyssey is a 1968 science fiction novel by Arthur C. Clarke (1917–1918). It was developed concurrently with Stanley Kubrick's film version and published after the release of the film, but eventually only Clarke ended up as the official author. By 1992, the novel had sold 3 million copies worldwide.

For an elaboration of Clarke and Kubrick's collaborative work on this project, see The Lost Worlds of 2001, Arthur C. Clarke, Signet, 1972.

When David Bowman approaches the monolith, it opens and pulls in his pod. Before he vanishes, Mission Control hears him proclaim the unforgettable words: “The thing’s hollow — it goes on forever — and — oh my God! — it’s full of stars!”

One more paragraph with large text. HAL says: “What are you doing Dave?”.
